PTE2025/8/7 号改革后，WE SWT SST 加入人工审核，尤其 WE 部分有三个方面进行评分（CONTENT/DEVELOPMENT 0-6 分，STRUCTURE AND COHERANCE 0-6 分， GENERAL LINGUISTIC RANGE 0-6 分） ，所以 8/6 后考生需要扭转之前 WE 无脑套用填词的方式，减少框架出现的频率，加大观点出现频率与逻辑性）。基础较好的同学，可以参考动态框架句的建议，进行框架句的灵活替换。

根据 WE 的作文的问答，大致可以将大作文的题目分为两个类别：单边论证类（一边倒类型+给观点直接论证）和双边论证类（正反观点+中立观点）；有关于问法中有些题目有背景介绍后再进行提问，有些题目直接开门见山地给出问题，所以由此在首段的描述上有些区别（在题干信息比较多的时候抄写题干，在题干信息中没有背景介绍时用固定句式，具体可参照以下的例子）：

Eg 1. Nowadays, people believe that the environment influences their accomplishments. Some people think their success and accomplishments were influenced by the places where they grew up. Do you think the environment does or does not affect people's accomplishments and how it affects?

作答示例：Nowadays, people believe that the environment influences their accomplishments. Some people think their success and accomplishments were influenced by the places where they grew up. This matter is extremely important to both individuals and society. From my perspective, the environment affects people's accomplishment in two ways. （标蓝的首两句为抄首句中的陈述句，最后的标蓝的句子是根据题目问法进行的回答）

Eg 2. Whether travel is a necessary component in quality education? 旅行是不是素质教育的必要组成部分？

In recent years, the issue of quality education has sparked widespread debate. This matter is extremely important to both individuals and society. From my perspective, travel is a necessary component in quality education.（本题为直接问答，无背景性描述，所以用框架句进行填充，最后的标蓝的句子是根据题目问法进行的回答）

6491 Studying climate change

Imagine you have been assigned to work on research about climate change. Which area of study would you choose to work on and why? Give examples using cases from your chosen area of study. 假设你被分配到一项关于气候变化的研究。你会选择研究哪个领域，为什么？

In recent years, the issue of climate change has sparked widespread debate. This matter is extremely important to both individuals and society. From my perspective, the most promising area of research is renewable energy development, because it directly addresses the root causes of climate change and provides sustainable solutions.

First and foremost, renewable energy can significantly reduce greenhouse gas emissions. It is quite important for governments and industries because it enables them to replace fossil fuels with cleaner alternatives. For example, many countries have successfully adopted large-scale solar and wind projects that cut millions of tons of carbon dioxide annually. Interestingly, a recent study conducted by the United Nations a year before just proved what I mentioned above. What is more, another reason must be taken into consideration. Renewable energy not only protects the environment but also promotes energy independence. Therefore, these reasons collectively underscore the importance of recognizing that renewable energy research is indeed the case.

In addition, another key reason supporting the argument is that renewable energy stimulates economic growth. This factor is particularly significant because it creates new jobs in manufacturing, construction, and technology sectors. A relevant example is that the rapid expansion of wind power, which has provided thousands of employment opportunities in both developed and developing countries. Through this example, one can better appreciate the value of job creation and innovation. So, renewable energy is not only an environmental necessity but also an economic driver.

In conclusion, more and more researchers and policymakers are focusing on climate change. It is obvious that we should acknowledge the importance of renewable energy research. In light of these points, it is clear that investing in this field offers both environmental and economic benefits, and we must take action to ensure a better future.

19926 Experiential learning

Some people point out that experiential learning (i.e. learning by doing it) can work well in formal education. Nonetheless, others think a traditional form of teaching is the best. Do you think experiential learning can work well in high schools or colleges? （与真题措辞一致）有些人指出，体验式学习(即通过做来学习)在正规教育中很有效。尽管如此，其他人认为传统的教学形式是最好的。你认为体验式学习在高中或大学里行得通吗？

In recent years, the issue of experiential learning in formal education has sparked widespread debate. This matter is extremely important to both individuals and society. From my perspective, experiential learning can work well in both high schools and colleges because it enhances student engagement and develops practical skills.

First and foremost, experiential learning encourages active participation and deeper understanding of knowledge. It is quite important for students because they often learn better when they can apply theories to real-life situations. For example, science experiments in laboratories allow students to grasp abstract concepts more effectively than lectures alone. 【Interestingly, a recent study conducted by the United Nations a year before just proved what I mentioned above.】 整句可删除 What is more, another reason must be taken into consideration. Experiential learning also cultivates critical thinking and problem-solving abilities. Therefore, these reasons collectively underscore the importance of recognizing that student engagement is indeed the case.

In addition, another key reason supporting the argument is that experiential learning equips learners with practical skills for future careers. This factor is particularly significant because today's job market demands not only academic knowledge but also hands-on experience. A relevant example is that internship programs in colleges, which provide students with valuable exposure to real workplaces. Through this example, one can better appreciate the value of practical training. So, experiential learning is an effective preparation for life beyond school.

In conclusion, more and more educators and institutions are focusing on innovative teaching approaches. It is obvious that we should acknowledge the importance of experiential learning. In light of these points, it is clear that integrating such methods into high schools and colleges will bring long-term benefits to students, and we must take action to ensure a better future.

6649 Reputation or short-term strategies

Should marketing for consumer goods companies like clothing and food focus on reputation or on short-term strategies like discount and special offers? And in what ways this can impact on their reputation? Why?像服装和食品这样的消费品公司的营销应该注重声誉，还是注重折扣和特价等短期策略?这对他们的声誉有什么影响?为什么?

In recent years, the issue of marketing strategies for consumer goods companies has sparked widespread debate. This matter is extremely important to both individuals and society. In fact, I highly believe that the issue of whether to prioritize brand reputation or rely on short-term offers has both advantages and disadvantages.

First and foremost, building a strong reputation can ensure long-term success for companies. It is quite important for businesses and customers because consumers are more likely to remain loyal to brands they trust. For example, well-known companies that consistently maintain quality and transparency often enjoy stable market shares even without frequent discounts. What is more, another reason must be taken into consideration. A positive reputation not only attracts repeat buyers but also strengthens credibility in highly competitive markets. Therefore, these reasons collectively underscore the importance of recognizing that brand reputation is indeed the case.

On the other hand, critics point out that short-term strategies such as discounts and special offers can boost sales immediately. This factor is particularly significant because many consumers are highly sensitive to price fluctuations. A relevant example is that seasonal promotions in the clothing industry, which often lead to a sudden surge in sales. Through this example, one can better appreciate the value of short-term marketing tactics. So, temporary strategies may be useful for attracting new customers and increasing short-term profits.

In conclusion, more and more companies and consumers are focusing on marketing strategies. While the marketing strategy has its merits, it is important to consider its potential downsides. In light of these points, it is clear that balancing long-term reputation with occasional short-term offers is the most effective approach, and we must take action to maximize benefits while minimizing adverse impacts.
