Fill in the blanks (完形填空)

1. #23396 The Importance of Music Education 高频 新题 新增高频 机经题 模拟题

Since the dawn of civilization, music has always been an indispensable part of children's education. Today, in most countries around the world, music courses are still [offered] in schools as part of the basic curriculum. The ancient Greeks believed that they should be [performed] alongside mathematics and physics, as these subjects complement and enhance one another. Researchers at The Ohio State University conducted a retrospective study on the behavior of children (mainly high school students) who had been [exposed] to music courses in their early years or throughout their school life. The presence of music in adolescent education has a significant impact on their ability to [understand] complex concepts such as mathematics or physics.

offered : 表示“开设(课程)”，与 courses are offered 为固定教育表达。

performed : 表示“进行/实践”，这里指音乐与其他学科一起学习和实践；studied 虽可但不如 performed 贴近音乐语境。 exposed : 固定搭配 be exposed to (接触到)。 understand : 表示“理解”，与 complex concepts 搭配自然；grasp 更强调迅速领会。

2. #23381 British Isles 高频 机经题

The passage is about the separation of the British Isles from the continent. A continent once bordered with Britain has sunk, but not many people [realize] that Britain is a relatively recent [entity]. Scientists have been able to [reconstruct] this ancient continent with the help of modern technologies. However, no archaeological [evidence] has ever been found to fully support this claim, leaving the mystery unresolved.

3. #23363 The Marshmallow Test 高频 机经题

In the original test, which was administered at the Bing Nursery School, at Stanford, in the nineteen-sixties, Mischel's team would present a child with a treat (marshmallows were just one option) and tell her that she could either eat the one treat [immediately] or wait alone in the room for several minutes until the researcher returned, at which point she could have two treats. The promised treats were always visible and the child knew that all she had to do to stop the agonizing [wait] was ring a bell to call the experimenter back—although in that [case], she wouldn't get the second treat. The longer a child delayed gratification, Mischel found—that is, the longer she was able to wait—the better she would fare later in life at numerous measures of what we now call executive function. She would [perform] better academically, earn more money, and be healthier and happier. She would also be more likely to avoid a number of negative outcomes, including jail time, obesity, and drug use.

5. #23361 Omniscience 全知高频 机经题

Omniscience may be a foible of men, but it is not so of books. Knowledge, as Johnson said, is of two [kinds], you may know a thing yourself, and you may know where to find it. Now the amount which you may actually know yourself must, at its best, be limited, but what you may know of the [sources] of information may, with proper training, become almost boundless. And here come the [value] and use of reference books—the working of one book in connexion with another—and applying your own [intelligence] to both. By this means we get as near to that omniscient volume which tells everything as ever we shall get, and although the single volume or work which tells everything does not exist, there is a vast number of reference books in existence, a knowledge and proper use of which is essential to every intelligent person. Necessary as I believe reference books to be, they can easily be made to be to [contributory] idleness, and too mechanical a use should not be made of them.

8. #23322 Daniel Harris 高频 机经题

Daniel Harris, a scholar of consumption and style, has observed that until photography finally [supplanted] illustration as the “primary means of advertising clothing” in the 1950s, glamour inhered [less] in the face of the drawing, which was by necessity schematic and generalized, than in the sketch' s attitude, posture, and gestures, especially in the strangely dainty positions of the hands. Glamour once resided so emphatically in the stance of the model that the [faces] in the illustrations cannot really be said to have [expressions] at all, but angles or tilts. The chin raised upwards in a haughty look; the eyes lowered in an attitude of introspection; the head cocked at an inquisitive or coquettish angle: or the profile presented in sharp outline, emanating power the severity like an emperor' s bust [embossed] on a Roman coin.

【解题思路】

There are now about 6,800 languages left in the world, compared with perhaps [twice] that number back at the dawn of agriculture. Thanks in [part] to the rise of uber-languages, most importantly English, the remaining languages are now dying at the [rate] of about one a fortnight. Want to learn Busuu, anyone? Then you'd better head to Cameroon fast, before one of the language's last eight speakers kicks the bucket (as the Busuu-nese presumably doesn't say).

16. #23293 Two Sentiments 高频 机经题 超高频

Over the last ten thousand years there seem to have been two separate and conflicting building sentiments throughout the history of towns and cities. Specifically, [one] is the desire to start again, for a variety of reasons: an earthquake or a tidal wave may have demolished the settlement, or fire destroyed it, or the new city [marks] a new political beginning. The other can be likened to the effect of a magnet: established settlements attract people, who [tend] to come whether or not there is any planning for their arrival. The clash between these two sentiments is evident in every established city [unless] its development has been almost completely accidental or is lost in history. Incidentally, many settlements have been planned from the beginning but, for a variety of reasons, no settlement followed the plan. In search of lessons to [apply] in our own careers, we often try to [emulate] what effective leaders do. Roger Martin says this focus is misplaced, because moves that work in one

Human beings tend to [imitate] actions that they see. Physiologically, our brains include mirror neurons, which [react] to actions that are seen as if we are doing the action ourselves. It is largely an unconscious and automatic experience. When we hear people speak, observe their vocal [nuances], watch their posture, gestures, and facial expressions, etc, neural networks in our brains are stimulated by the "shared representations" generating feelings within us that [reflect] the experience of those we are observing.

[over] the past two decades, around a third of the world's mangrove swamps have been [converted] for human use, with many turned into valuable shrimp farms. In 2007 an economic study of such shrimp farms in Thailand showed that the commercial profits per hectare were $9,632. If that were the only [factor], conversion would seem an excellent idea. However, proper [accounting] shows that for each hectare government subsidies formed

$8,412 of this figure and there were costs, too: $1,000 for pollution and $12,392 for losses to ecosystem services. These comprised damage to the supply of foods and medicines that people had taken from the forest, the loss of habitats for fish, and less buffering against storms. And because a given shrimp farm only stays [productive] for three or four years, there was the additional cost of restoring them afterwards.

32. #22962 Living away from home 高频 机经题

For lots of first-year students, the University may be their first experience living away from home for an [extended] period. It is a [definite] break from home. In my point of view, this is the best thing that you can do. I know you have to fend for yourself, cook and clean after yourself, basically look after yourself without your parents but the truth is some time in your life you are going to have to part with lovely Mummy and Daddy. But they are only just a phone call away, and it is really good to have some QUALITY TIME without them. The first few weeks can be a [lonely] period. There may be concerns about forming the friendship. When new students look around, it may seem that everyone else is self-confident and [socially] successful! The reality is that everyone has the same concerns. Increased personal freedom can feel both wonderful and [frightening]. Students can come and go as they choose with no one to hassle them. The strange environment with new kinds of procedures and new people can create the sense of being on an emotional roller coaster. This is normal and to be expected. You meet so many more people in the halls than if you stayed at home. The main points about living away from home are NO PARENTS! You don't have to tell them where you're going, who you're going with, what time you'll be coming, why you're going etc. You learn various social skills you have to get along with your roommates Living with them can present special, sometimes intense, problems. Negotiating respect of personal property, personal space, sleep, and relaxation needs, can be a complex task. The complexity increases when roommates are of different [backgrounds] with very different values. It is unrealistic to expect that roommates will be best friends. Meaningful, new relationships should not be expected to develop overnight. It took a great deal of time to develop intimacy in high school friendships the same will be true of intimacy in university friendships. You have a phone! So if you ever get homesick or miss you, Mummy, then she's always at the end of a phone-line for you and so are your friends.

92. #18309 The origin of species 机经题 高频

In The Origin of Species, Darwin provided abundant evidence that life on Earth has evolved over time, and he proposed natural selection as the primary mechanism for that change. He observed that individuals [differ] in their inherited traits and that selection acts on such differences, leading to [evolutionary] change. Although Darwin realised that variation in heritable traits is a prerequisite for [evolution], he did not know precisely how organisms pass heritable traits to their offspring. Just a few years after Darwin published The Origin of Species, Gregor Mendel wrote a groundbreaking paper on inheritance in pea plants. In that paper, Mendel proposed a model of inheritance in which organisms transmit discrete heritable units (now called genes) to their offspring. Although Darwin did not know about genes, Mendel's paper set the stage [for] understanding the genetic differences on which evolution is based.

Many people today think of culture in the way that it was thought of in Europe during the 18th and early 19th centuries. This [concept] of culture reflected inequalities within European societies and their colonies around the world. This understanding of culture equates culture with civilization and contrasts both with nature or non-civilization. According to this understanding of culture, some countries are more civilized than others, and some people are more cultured than others. Anything that doesn't fit into this category is labeled as chaos or anarchy. From this perspective, culture is closely tied to cultivation, which is the progressive refinement of human [behavior]. In practice, culture referred to elite goods and activities such as haute cuisine, high fashion or haute couture, museum-caliber art and classical music.
